

Publication Ethics and Publication Malpractice Statement

Journal Soudobé dějiny published by the Institute of Contemporary History of the Czech Academy of Sciences follows the principles of publication ethics and publication malpractice statement.

Responsibilities of the Editor

- The editor and editorial staff holds responsibility for the decision as to which of the papers submitted to the journal will be published.
- The editor and editorial staff shall not consider the authors' race, gender, sexual orientation, religious belief, ethnic origin, citizenship, or political philosophy as pertinent to the selection of the text for publication.
- The editor and editorial staff observe all legal requirements regarding libel, copyright infringement, and plagiarism.
- Until the moment of the admission of the article for publication, the editor and any editorial staff shall not disclose any information about the submitted manuscript to any third party other than: a) corresponding author; b) peer referees; c) members of the editorial team; d) the publisher; e) copyeditors, proof readers, typesetters involved in the production of the journal as appropriate.
- Unpublished original material submitted to the journal shall never be used by the editor or any party privy to the material prior to its publication for their own research purposes without the author's explicit written consent.

Referee's responsibilities

- The peer referee shall provide the editors with information that will allow them to make an informed decision concerning the publication of the material.
- The editor and editorial staff shall provide the author with relevant peer referees suggestions.
- The peer referee shall be impartial in their evaluation of the submission and shall never use ad-hominem arguments.
- The peer referee shall express his or her views clearly and unambiguously.
- The referee is obliged to identify insufficient identification of sources or potential plagiarism, of which cases the referee shall notify the editor.
- The peer referee shall treat received documents as confidential.
- The peer referee shall disclose to the editor any conflict of interest. The peer referee shall decline the reference upon the discovery of any conflict of interest and shall inform the editor about such instances.

Author's Responsibilities and Obligations

- Authors shall present original research. Authors shall provide full and honest list of references, crediting all other researchers and other authors whose work has made the submission possible.
- Authors shall never submit plagiarized work, be it a plagiarism based on uncredited translation, uncredited citation or reference to someone else's unpublished work, or ideas knowingly harvested from others, including students, whose unpublished work remains theirs. Submitting authors agree that plagiarism is not only a crime, but also the most degrading act in the space of academia and therefore shall take special care that no part of their work should leave any doubt in terms of academic honesty.

- Authors shall not submit material published previously elsewhere, except by explicit invitation of the editors, who see the reprint of already copyrighted material as important to the overall concept of the issue.
- Submitting the same paper to a number of journals shall be considered unethical, therefore authors shall not submit contributions considered for review in Soudobé dějiny elsewhere.
- Authors shall report any fundamental errors or inaccuracies that could not have been verified by referees or editors to the editors, requesting an erratum.
