

Topographies of Transformation: Dresden–Prague Talks

© Deutsche Fotothek / Norbert Vogel

A COOPERATION OF THE HANNAH ARENDT INSTITUTE FOR TOTALITARIANISM STUDIES AT THE TU DRESDEN AND THE INSTITUTE OF CONTEMPORARY HISTORY OF THE CZECH ACADEMY OF SCIENCES IN PRAGUE; ORGANIZED BY MAREN HACHMEISTER, FRIEDERIKE KIND-KOVÁCS, KLÁRA PINEROVÁ AND VERONIKA PEHE.

This lecture series brings together scholars from the Hannah Arendt Institute for Totalitarianism Studies at the TU Dresden and the Institute of Contemporary History of the Czech Academy of Sciences in Prague. In four talks, they will explore different aspects of the social and cultural histories of the postsocialist transformations in Eastern Germany, Czechoslovakia and beyond. Running through the series of talks is a unifying focus on the spatial aspects of transformation processes: their situatedness in particular topographies and their (unequal) distribution across different urban and rural locations.

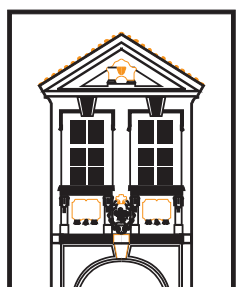

The talks will take place in person, alternately in Prague and Dresden, as part of each institution's regular colloquium/seminar programme, with the possibility of online attendance.

The talks can be attended in person or via zoom.
For the respective registration, please contact us stating your full name at hait@tu-dresden.de.

The registration link will be sent to you separately before the start of the event.

These talks are financed by the Saxon government out of the State budget approved by the Saxon State Parliament
